

C.G. Conn®

The story of the Conn trumpets ultimately begins in 1875 with the vision and determination of one man: Colonel C.G. Conn. Founding a band instrument manufacturing company in the small town of Elkhart, Indiana, Conn quickly became known for his innovative brass designs and became the largest producer of trombones in the United States and earned the lasting reputation as "America's trombone house." Conn trumpets are recognized for their unique tone color and refusal to "break up" even at the most extreme dynamics making it one of the most versatile trumpets in the world. Conn trumpets, a future as bright as their past.

The Vintage One Bb trumpet combines a responsive .459" medium-large bore, a rich resonant one-piece hand-hammered Sterling silver bell, a #46 standard mouthpiece for controlled response, two tuning slides, both traditional "D" shaped and single radius for choice in resistance, smooth action Monel pistons, a patented adjustable Modular Valve Weight (MWW) system, and a clear lacquer finish providing a subtle warmth to the overall sound.

The Vintage One 1BS Bb trumpet was designed to be well balanced and compatible with the player's concept of sound. The Sterling silver bell and a clear lacquer finish providing a subtle warmth to the overall sound. All of the features make the Conn Vintage One model trumpets the most versatile single trumpet outfit available today.

Standard features include a one-piece hand hammered bell with a flat wire soldered rim, Monel pistons, a one-piece brass valve casing, machined finger buttons, brass inside slides, nickel silver tuning slide receivers, brass mouthpiece receiver, 1st slide ring, fixed third slide ring, third valve slide pin and a 1-1/2c mouthpiece
